Good Fish Pond Profitable to Owner

This is the first of three short articles on good farm fish ponds written by Verne E. Davidson, biologist, Soil Conservation Service.

A good fishpond brings pleasure, profit and pride to its owner. A poor one is a disappointment. A fishpond is good if fishing is good. It should give between 100 and 200 fish per year for each acre.

Unmanaged ponds usually yield less than 35 pounds per acre. If your pond is manageable, it will respond to proper treatment. A good pond requires four essential qualities:

1. A favorable site — soil that holds water, a watershed of favorable size (not too large), and a basin of suitable depth. Your pond should be at least 3 feet deep.
2. Proper construction, and protection from erosion. Clear the pond of brush and trees. Leave the pond bottom smooth so you can seine it if necessary. Make the spillway extra wide. Deepen any place that would be shallow. Divert excessive water when necessary. Establish the best possible soil and water conservation measures on the watershed. You want the pond to remain good for 100 years or longer — no silt. These problems are understood by your soil conservationist who can help you.
3. Fertile and weedless water. Pond waters respond with management, to grow more fish, and consequently better fishing. Only a few people fertilize water properly. It is a new farm practice which is not understood well enough. It not only grows a bigger population of fish; it also prevents and controls the most troublesome weeds; and waterweeds usually ruin ponds of moderate to low fertility. "How to use fishpond fertilizers successfully" will be the subject of next week's article.
4. A heavy population of fish that are catchable — sizes big enough to enjoy, and ready on most occasions to bite rapidly. This is a requirement to maintain fishing patience, and to fill a man's stomach in 2 hours or 3 hours. It requires the right kinds of fish, a check against fish which before stocking, favored fish before stocking, favored fish before stocking, favored fish before stocking.

Soil Conservationist

Howard Foley, near Curtis, is a man who is really interested in his woodlands. Last year he set out to kill all of the hardwoods on his farm because they had little commercial value. By killing the hardwoods, he is releasing the young pines so that they can grow into saleable timber. Mr. Foley has planted 40 acres of pines this year. They are now about 10 feet high and are growing well.

Farmers Hear Annual Spring Check-up Call

AUBURN — Days are coming a little longer and staying a little longer. And down on the farm, things are picking up as the coming rush season is already beginning to dawn.

So API Extension Engineer J. T. Gallard this week advised all farmers to check and service tractors and machines before they return them to work in the field. He added that a few minutes of time now may save a big time loss when operations are in full swing.

He suggested that all machines be checked for needed repairs and all bolts and nuts tightened. Farmers need a good supply of proper lubricants on hand for tractors and other machines. All lubricants should be stored in a clean, dry place with protection from sun and dust.

Not only do machines need to be checked but also fields. Gallard recommended that all obstructions — stumps, trees, gullies or rocks — be removed so that farm machinery can operate at top efficiency. Stalks not cut last fall should be cut or shredded now and turned under so they won't interfere with the planting and cultivating equipment.

A good seedbed is the backbone of a good crop stand. And Gallard said that the land should be turned thoroughly for a good seedbed. Follow this up with a disk harrow to remove all clods and turn under the weeds. Then use a section harrow or drag to smooth the land. All these steps will give the planting, cultivating and harvesting equipment a chance to do a good job this year.

Gallard pointed out that another good preparation step is to gather spare or replacement parts for machinery now. These spares will be handy in the busy season if a breakdown occurs.

Soybeans Boost Cash Income for Some of Alabama's Farmers

AUBURN — Soybeans can add extra dollars to many Alabama farmers' incomes.

API Extension Agronomist Jasper Jernigan said this week that fertile bottomland in most areas of the state are ideal for soybeans and that with favorable weather conditions this to utilize his land to the fullest. Soybeans do not give a big response to direct application of fertilizer; however, they will grow well on thin, upland soil. Jernigan advised the broadcast of 400 pounds of 0-14-14 per acre ahead of the planting unless the beans grow on a highly fertilized crop.

YOU WANT THE BEST IN FERTILIZER!

Buy CAPITAL LOW-MOISTURE, HIGH-VALUE fertilizers. LOW-MOISTURE is essential in getting more fertilizer for less money.

We highly recommend CAPITAL ES-MIN-EL MIXTURE — Essential Mineral Elements — for truck crops and orchards. CAPITAL ES-MIN-EL MIXTURE used properly will produce peaches and other fruits over grade.

We recommend 0-14-14 fertilizer with Neptachlor or Aldrin for control of FIRE ANTS.

For general crops we highly recommend CAPITAL LOW-MOISTURE 8-8-8, 4-12-12, as well as 6-8-8 and 4-10-7.

One ton of non-acid forming CAPITAL fertilizer, containing Dolomitic Limestone, will produce 25% more cotton than one ton of acid forming fertilizer made with sand. No SAND is used in CAPITAL fertilizers.

SOLVE - A - CRIME

BY A. C. GORDON

You are seated in the office of Sheriff Tom Thompson talking over old times with your friend, when suddenly the door flies open and a hatless young man bursts in.

"Sheriff... come with me! There's been a terrible accident. I've just killed my best friend!"

All three of you pile into the sheriff's car and within 20 minutes you've arrived at the scene of the tragedy — a campsite deep in the thickly wooded area of the hunting grounds. By the glow of the sheriff's flashlight you can see that the campfire has been carefully extinguished, and then upon being led over to one edge of the clearing you find Bill Gray's body sprawled out in the bushes — clad in hunting clothes and his gun lying on the ground nearby. A quick look at the bullet hole in the center of his forehead tells you he must have died instantly.

"I don't know just how to begin," exclaims Don Wilkenson. "I guess I was too jumpy... or if he had only called out or whistled." He sits down on a log and bows his head in his hands.

"Suppose you tell us just how for a number of years — ever since we went into business together. We unpacked our equipment and I was all for waiting until tomorrow morning to be his rifle and note that it is a new, expensive model. You sniff the back of the barrel and find the gun and rejoin the two men beside the remains of the campfire.

"I don't know just how I am going to explain this to Bill's wife," Wilkenson is exclaiming to the sheriff.

"First, you're going to have to do a little explaining to us," you say. "This was no accidental shooting!"

How do you know? SOLUTION — Don Wilkenson's story that he shot at the glow of eyes reflected by the campfire does not hold water. While the eyes of an animal will reflect light, the eyes of a human being will not.

Frank P. Samford, president of the company, in reporting to the stockholders, pointed out that 1956 was the best year in the company's 56-year history.

Not only was the increase of insurance in force and increase in assets greater than in any other year, but reserves were strengthened and the increase in assets greater than in any other year.

Showing an increase in insurance in force of more than $125 million for the year, Liberty National now has total insurance in force of more than $1,170,000,000. This increase in insurance in force was approximately $30 million more than the increase made in 1955, the previous high.

To allow clothes to go through an electric ironer as rapidly as possible, first put through a few sheets of waxed paper — waxed side down — to give the shoe of the ironer a slippery finish. In upright freezers the top shelf is the coldest and the bottom is the warmest, but in a chest freezer, the space just under the lid is the warmest. If fruit juice or wine is spilled on the tablecloth, quickly cover the spot with salt. This lessens the stain and then boiling water poured through the stain will usually remove it entirely.

A flannel bag large enough to fit over the broom turns it into a handy item to use for cleaning ceilings and high walls. The bag can be easily removed and washed.

Keep a close watch on the color of the flame on your kerosene stove. A yellow flame is a sign of inefficiency and the stove should be turned off for adjustments. A blue flame, on the other hand, is the sign of good operation with a properly trimmed wick and adjustment of air.

Company Has Best Year

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of Liberty National Life Insurance Company held in the company's home office building in Birmingham, Feb. 19, the stockholders ratified the recommendation of the Board of Directors and voted a stock dividend of one million dollars, increasing the capital stock from $5 million to $6 million. This was accomplished by transferring a million dollars from the surplus account to the stock account. In addition to this action, the par value of the stock was reduced from $10 per share to $2 per share, increasing the number of shares outstanding from 500,000 to 3,000,000.

Frank P. Samford, president of the company, in reporting to the stockholders, pointed out that 1956 was the best year in the company's 56-year history. GEORGE ANDREWS
WASHINGTON

HELP FOR THE COTTON FARMER—The Alabama cotton farmer isn't getting a fair benefit under the present cotton acreage allotment program. It's trying to do something about it. When acreage allotments were first made, the Alabama farmers were assigned only 64.9 percent of their 1946 to 1950 average. On a national average, the 1957 cotton acreage allotment is 80.4 percent of the acreage on an average annual basis for those years. This is 20 percent more than Alabama.

In order to try to make up this loss to the Alabama farmer, I introduced a bill this week that would pay them through the Soil Bank for cotton acreage which they have lost to other states since 1950. My bill would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to set up a "farm base acreage" for each old cotton farm. This base would go into the soil bank. And cotton farmers would be paid through one religious faith over another.

The Soil Bank for this 20 percent. This would just about balance the amount of acreage that Alabama farmers have lost. In actual practice, the farmer would be paid through the Soil Bank for his 20 percent which represents the difference between his average allotment and the national average allotment.

Also, my bill would require the Agriculture Department to make allotments on the basis of an exact land survey if the farmer requests them to do so, instead of on a "rough estimate."

The bill is designed to compensate Alabama cotton farmers for acreage they have lost without adding a single bale of cotton to the nation's surplus.

POSTAGE STAMP CONTROVERSY—Freedom of religion is one of the most important liberties guaranteed by our Constitution. The principle of complete separation of Church and State has been carefully guarded since this Nation was founded. Constant vigilance must be maintained to protect this ideal. My office has received much mail from Alabama protesting a Senate bill that would create a postage stamp commemorating the 75th Anniversary of the Knights of Columbus, an organization made up exclusively of men from one church group into the soil bank. And cotton farmers would be paid through one religious faith over another.

Strawberries Called Good Bet for Crop

AUBURN—Strawberries make mighty good eating. But even more, these berries offer excellent opportunity for Alabama farmers to earn some extra cash. In explaining these statements, API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby said the berries are in good demand, bring satisfactory prices, and are in no danger of surplus. He explained that processing of strawberries for year-round use in family menus leaves little chance for an oversupply in the next few years.

And for farmers who wish to take advantage of this opportunity, Bagby said that strawberries may be set out any time from now until late March. In

Folsom Takes Good Lead in This Ball Game

Opponents of Gov. James E. Folsom had their turn at bat again—and struck out. First it was the mansion fund. That battle is now history. The Governor not only escaped unscathed but with his prestige at the highest point it had been since he was defeated for the post of National Democratic Committeeman last year. Wide-spread charges of mispent funds melted away under the scrutiny of an audit by the State Examiner's office. Folsom's stature in the public eye was built up by the fact that he was charged and found not guilty.

Now the same thing happens again. Attorney General John Patterson trotted out astronomical figures on the amount of money spent by the highway department. He charged, and Circuit Judge Walter B. Jones of Montgomery ruled with him, that resurfacing of highways amounts to public improvements under the law and requires competitive bids.

Friday the State Supreme Court reversed Judge Jones decision and ruled that Alabama law requires no competitive bidding for the purchase and spreading of asphalt to resurface existing highways. The blow to the prestige of the state's attorney general could not have been more devastating and crushing. In the same vein, Gov.

Garbage Disposal Levy Ties Into All City Functions

It might seem peculiar to some readers to start an editorial on the proposed garbage collection fee with a discussion of sewage, water supply, police and fire protection and better streets. But money to finance all of these services comes out of the same pot so funds spent providing one function obviously can't be used on another.

In determining whether or not they will fight or accept the levy on garbage disposal services now being considered by the council, it is important that they know what they are getting into. The levy is not a new tax. It is a fee for service. It is a fee for the use of the city's garbage disposal system. It is a fee for the use of the city's streets, sewers and gutters but it will still cost the city some hard cash as well as the services of some key men while they are working on the project.

There taxpayers have the problem. Do they want to limit and curtail these expansions of city services by demanding that the town spend what funds it does have on providing free garbage disposal service or are they willing to ante up $1.00 to $2.50 per month per family and $2.00 to $12.50 per business to see the progress continue in other phases of the city's services?

Despite a tremendously expanded and improved city services the past few years, Elba still falls below minimum standards on many and is rapidly approaching the critical point on some like sewage disposal. City government in Elba is caught in the same squeeze that other municipalities throughout the U. S. are facing. A more or less static source of income is asked to provide more services even though the cost of labor and material has skyrocketed.

What Will Be the Effects of the Soil Bank?
Coffee County farmers have been putting their cotton acreage in the Soil Bank in droves the past two weeks. As of right now it looks like anyone with a small acreage who doesn't want to plant cotton can get paid for not doing it. The ASC office in New Brockton has a sizeable sum allotted to it for this purpose.

If cotton was such a profitable crop for the county farmers, they wouldn't be in such a big hurry to get out of the chore of planting it. While it is called a cash crop, it evidently is not too highly regarded by the men who have to plant and harvest it. Be that as it may, the die is now cast. With cotton in the past years has been over a million dollar crop for the county, it probably will be about half that this year.

What does that mean? First of all seed and fertilizer dealers should notice a drop in demand for their goods. With that much acreage going out of production, it is almost sure to be felt. Then how will farm machinery dealers and suppliers of gas and oil products be affected? What percentage of their business will be lost?

When cotton chopping time comes, families who have relied on this work as a source of income will find a lot fewer jobs open. At harvest time, pickers will no longer find the demand for their services that

From Our Early Files

22 Years Ago
The county agent is informed that the final administrative rulings and regulations on the 1955 acreage reduction program will be available in the near future. The program will get underway in the county soon after these regulations are received. Before the actual work in the county can be started, it will be necessary to organize the Cotton Producers' Association. The regulations governing the organization are: All producers within a county who are parties to a 1954 and 1955 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contract are members of the Association, and any producer operating land within the county who enters into a contract with the secretary to adjust cotton acreage or reduction will thereby become a member of the Association.

Q. When chicken pie or something of that sort is served in an individual baking dish in a public eating place, how should it be eaten?
A. Usually these individual dishes are placed beside your plate and you help yourself to half the contents at a time, allowing the remaining half to her first to their table before keep hot in the baking dish.

Q. Who pays for the corsages worn by both mothers at the wedding?
A. While in some communities the bridegroom buys these, it is usually more customary for the husbands to buy these. The bridegroom's wife usually wears a corsage worn by their wives.

Q. I know it's a woman's place to offer her hand first to a man, but if the man should make the gesture first, what should the woman do?
A. She should accept his hand of course, without hesitation. Q. My friends maintain that a well-dressed woman always wears a hat and gloves in the daytime, whereas she is going to lunch or theater, or merely shopping. Is this correct?
A. A well-dressed woman on a city street, should wear hat and gloves. In the country, she may do as she pleases.

Q. When a gift becomes engaged, is it proper for her to show her ring to her friends, or wait for them to ask to see it?

ENDS SUNDAY MORNING

Methodist Revival Underway

The revival which started at the Elba Methodist Church Sunday morning is in progress. A congregation which filled the auditorium of the church and overflowed into the men's Bible classroom heard Dr. Horace Sprague, evangelist, deliver the sermon Sunday night.

Dr. Sprague, an approved evangelist of the Indiana Methodist Conference, is preaching twice daily at 7 AM and 7 PM. Rev. Clifford Abbott, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Tallahassee, is song leader and director of young people's activities. Services will continue through Sunday night.

The morning service Sunday will be held at 8:30. Rev. Ralph Hendricks, pastor, will leave immediately following the service to report aboard the USS Sallust at Pensacola, Fla. He will be doing his annual two-week training cruise as a chaplain in the Naval Reserve. He expects time, 9:45.

2 Succumb During Week

H. D. WATERS
Funeral services for Harris D. Waters, 55, of Level Plains community near Enterprise, were held Friday from Mount Liberty Baptist Church with Rev. William Shelgrove and Rev. Ray Hudson officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Survivors include the widow; a step-daughter, Mrs. Sara Tindol of New Brooklyn; three sisters, Mrs. Will Cook of Abbeville, Mrs. Walter Andrews of Ozark, and Mrs. Erin Ward of Geneva. Four brothers, Ralph, Herman, Rufus, and O. V. Waters of Enterprise; three grand-children, and three great-grandchildren.

JOE BANKS BAILEY
Joe Banks Bailey, 51, former resident of Pine Level community, died last Thursday at his home in Brantley. He was 51.

Funeral services were held at 3 PM Friday from the Brantley Baptist Church with Revs. Bill Ray and Addison officiating. Interment in Brantley Cemetery.

ASK COOPERATION

At a meeting held by the Elba Fire Department Monday night in the city council rooms the following recommendations and operating rules were adopted:

Citizens are asked to refrain from calling the telephone operator to find out where the fire is. It seriously hampers her getting the Fire Department dispatched to the scene of the blaze.

The police department is being asked to enforce the ordinance which prohibits following a fire truck closer than 500 feet. Only persons authorized to ride on the fire trucks are firemen and police officers. All others are requested to stay clear of the trucks. Serious injury can be caused by not being familiar with the equipment.

STARTS MARCH 3

Assembly of God Revival

Each night at 7 o'clock through March 17, Rev. C. E. Simms, pastor, announces. Special music and singing will be featured nightly. Evangelist White is an accomplished trombonist. In 1947 and 1948 he won top honors in the state of Florida in the high school trombone solo competition.

Mrs. White accompanies him on the piano accordion and assists in the singing and children's activities. The couple have traveled and ministered extensively in the east and southeastern U. S.
